amp.rx and stewmac\_guitar ••• amp.rx Tag a hater This question has sparked debate for centuries! Well, maybe not that long, but people are certainly passionate about it. Variacs are definitely cheaper, but if you want to keep your rig as safe as possible, invest in long lasting road-rugged gear, and get rock solid customer service to boot, we think you might want to consider a BrownBox. If you love AmpRx gear and care to opine, leave a comment and let us know why! We WANT the debate here, so we're serious - tag a hater! Let's hear their side, and change some minds! #brownbox #voltagematters #vintageguitars #musicgear #amps 13w parker\_dabearish The biggest things for me is that the $\odot$ variac can go WAY up like stated and can easily cook your amp and a lot of cheaper variacs will not accurately read/display the voltage off the wall. ## Building and Optimizing Your Profile for YOUR Audience

Understanding Your Target Audience

Who is your target customer? Working musicians? Guitar collectors? Other luthiers? Etc.

Local Customers vs. Global Audience

- How to find people in your local market? Local boosting, local hashtags, location tags.
- What is the benefit to having followers outside of your serviceable market?

What kind of content does your audience engage with?

- Before & After Repairs (visual transformations)
- Behind the Scenes (tools, workbench, process)
- Educational Content (repair tips, craftsmanship insights)
- Inspiration / Motivation
- ASMR or Other Trends
- Showcasing Your Builds (in-progress & finished guitars)
- Customer Testimonials & Musician Spotlights

Profile Essentials

Optimize your profile for the algorithm and your audience's user experience.

- Choose a recognizable and memorable username.
- Creating a compelling bio including: Who you are, what you do, a call-to-action.
- Include a link (or links) in your bio using a direct link or multiple link host like Linktree.
- Profile picture: Your logo, your face, or a signature guitar/build.
- Opt for a business or creator account.
- Utilize story highlights.
- Remember, it's all about them not you, keep it value driven and customer oriented.

Understanding the Algorithm & Overall Strategy

How Instagram's Algorithm Works

- Consistency and frequency are key.
- Engagement-based ranking (likes, comments, shares, saves).
- Relevance & Interest (serving content users interact with).
- Keywords & Hashtags (yes, they still matter).
- Tap into other people's large audiences (collaborate).

- EVERYTHING is content.
- Storytelling: Everything is a story, passion, and process.
- Experimentation is part of success.
- Balancing posts, Reels, stories, and live sessions.
- The power of highlights.
- Hashtags and geotags matter Using hashtags & geotags for visibility (#guitarrepair, #luthierlife, #handcraftedguitars).
- How to encourage interactions & user-generated content.
- Other tactics for success (closed captioning, audio, etc.).

Best Practices for Captions & Engagement

- Long captions vs. short captions...which is right?
- Captions that spark conversation, create connection, and tell a story.
- Call-to-Action (CTA): Encouraging DMs, comments, shares, link clicks (utilize Instagram's tools).
- Responding to comments & messages to boost visibility (on your account AND community members' accounts).
